Saturday night he compelled his wife to disrobe and then drove her into the street.

At 1 o'clock this morning Hardwood suddenly appeared on the porch in his underwear and a gun in each hand. Exchanged shots with the officers. No one was hit. A siege continues.

A BETTER CHANCE FOR MAYFIELD NOW

Congressman James May Get Government Building.

Mr. Yerkes Says He Took No Part in the Bowling Green Case.

THE MURRAY POST OFFICE

Washington, Jan. 29.—Representative Ollie James, who has succeeded in securing an order from the postoffice department for free rural delivery in Mayfield, is working for his bill for a federal building there.

There is a better chance for the $100,000 building, since the city has been recommended by the postal authorities as being large enough for free delivery.

Mr. James thinks a public building bill would be introduced from the committee at this session. Kentucky will be especially interested in the bill, as federal buildings have been asked for a number of Kentucky towns.

"I took no part in the Bowling Green postoffice case," said John W. Yerkes this afternoon, in response to a question as to whether he recommended W. R. Speck for appointment or interested himself in the charges filed against him after the nomination.

If Mr. Speck is confirmed, it will be due to the efforts of William Henry Jones, although it is understood that both sides sought Mr. Yerkes' influence.

E. B. Hurt is said to have Mr. Yerkes' endorsement for the postmastership at Murray, and will probably "land."

FELL FROM MOVING TRAIN NEAR WINGO

D. Randolph, a Sign Writer Probably Fatally Injured.

Attempted to Jump, Having Passed His Station—Found Yesterday Morning.

HE WAS WORKING IN PADUCAH.

D. Randolph, a signwriter of Mayfield, and well-known in Paducah, where he has worked, lies at his home in Mayfield probably fatally injured, the result of a fall from a moving freight train one mile south of Wingo, Graves county, Ky., Saturday night.

Randolph had been in Paducah and desired to return home early Sunday morning. He did not wait for a passenger train, the first being due at 3:40, but, it is alleged, boarded a freight train in the local yards and started south. He intended to get off at Mayfield, but dozed off to sleep and did not awake until he had passed Wingo.

He realized he had been carried by his station, and tried to get off. In some way he fell and broke an arm and leg and sustained internal injuries, it is thought.

He was rendered unconscious and was not found until Sunday morning after sunrise.

Randolph was taken home to Mayfield and his injuries dressed. It is said that his condition is precarious and his physicians have little hope for recovery. His leg and arms are badly fractured and he shows symptoms of internal injuries, and was very low this afternoon.

Randolph has had many narrow escapes from probable death. About six months ago at Mayfield he was employed to paint the standpipe, which is 140 feet high. He started down the tall pipe and rather than work his way down on the ladder, took to a rope which he had secured to the top of the standpipe. He let himself down about 20 feet, and then suddenly saw he would give out before the ground was reached. It was too late to pull himself up and he was on the other side of the pipe and out of reach of the ladder.

Randolph wrapped his legs about the rope and began to slide the remaining distance of 120 feet. His legs and ankle were cut and burned by the rope nearly to the bone and he was laid up with blood poison for several weeks as a result.

Randolph had been out only a short time and was just getting into shape again for work when he met with the accident Saturday.

TAPS SOUNDED FOR GEN. JOE WHEELER

Veteran Warrior Laid to Rest This Afternoon.

The President and Many Other Prominent Officials Paid Their Last Respects.

BURIAL ARLINGTON CEMETERY.

Washington, Jan. 29.—With all the honors of his rank, Maj.-Gen. Joseph Wheeler was buried at Arlington today. Behind the caisson which carried his body marched veterans of the Confederate army, and soldiers of the Spanish American war.

All the morning the remains laid in state at St. John Episcopal church and were visited by almost continuous throngs.

The funeral services at 2 o'clock were attended by President Roosevelt, and several members of his cabinet, and a large concourse of army and navy officers.

Services were conducted by the Rt. Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, rector of the church.

A brief service from the military ritual was held at the grave, followed by the firing of three volleys and the sounding of taps.

Funeral in New York.

New York, Jan. 29.—An imposing military pageant passing across Brooklyn bridge, brief services at St. Thomas' Episcopal church on Fifth avenue, and an escort across the North river ferry to Jersey City, where the body was placed on a train to be taken to Washington for interment in the National Cemetery at Arlington, marked the funeral in this city yesterday of Brig.-Gen. Joseph Wheeler.

The body of the dead soldier was wrapped in flags under which he had served with almost equal vigor and distinction—the Stars and Bars of the Confederate states, and the Stars and Stripes. Veterans of the Southern and Northern armies mingled together in paying tribute to Gen. Wheeler, with the younger veterans of the Cuban and Philippines campaigns of 1898 and 1899. The route of the funeral cortège was lined with great crowds, most of whom stood with bared heads as the procession passed.

The funeral took place from the home of Gen. Wheeler's sister, Mrs. Sterling Smith in Brooklyn, where Gen. Wheeler died on Thursday, of pneumonia. The body was borne from the house by eight non-commissioned officers of infantry and placed upon a flag-draped artillery caisson.

Riderless Horse.

A riderless horse, with boots reversed in the stirrups and a cavalry sword dangling from the saddle was led just behind the caisson. The church edifice was thronged.

The altar of the church was almost hidden beneath the floral offerings, one amongst them, a great wreath, sent by President Roosevelt.

The brief services were conducted by the Rev. Ernest Stires, rector of the church, assisted by Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix, who, meeting the body at the door, led the way to the chancel.

After the casket had been placed on the pedestal the full vested choir of St. Thomas entered the church singing as a processional hymn, "Lead Kindly Light."

Following the church services the body was escorted to Jersey City, where it was placed on board a train of the Pennsylvania railroad, which left for Washington shortly after 6 o'clock.

THOROUGH STUDY

IS BEING MADE OF THE LIGHT QUESTION.

The Joint Committee Will Hold Another Meeting This Evening.

The light committees of the aldermanic and council boards will meet at the city hall tonight to take up the street car company's proposition to furnish street lights for the city.

The committee is studying the question from every view point. Tonight it will take up the report made to the board of works in November, 1904, on what it would cost the city to install an up-to-date 250 light plant, furnished by W. C. Humphreys, of St. Louis, and will also confer with George B. Edgar, of the Ft. Wayne Electrical company, and get his estimates.

The Humphrey report states that a 250 light plant of the best efficiency will cost the city $20,000 and to add 100 lights to the present plant, $10,000.

A member of the council committee said today it was merely a matter of figures; that he did not know what the committee would probably decide, but that just now it was information it wanted, and after a careful study of the question it would act for the best interests of the city.

MCKINLEY DAY.

Many People Today Wear Pink Carnations.

This is McKinley day, the anniversary of the birth of the martyred President, and it is being celebrated very elaborately in some of the cities. It has become almost a universal custom to observe it in all cities by wearing the pink carnation, McKinley's favorite flower. A good many were to be observed on the streets here today, and C. L. Brunson and Co. report a big demand.

MYSTERY OF GIRL NOT CLEARED UP

Asked That Her Trunk Be Shipped to Mayfield, Ky.

It is feared that she has done something rash—left no clue at college.

HAS RELATIVES IN MAYFIELD

The disappearance from college of Miss Lura Davidson, of Mayfield, Ky., as announced in Saturday's dispatches from London, Ky., has created quite a sensation in the state, and every effort is being exerted to discover some clue to the girl's whereabouts.

A later dispatch than the one Saturday says:

"Mystery still surrounds the disappearance of Miss Lura Davidson from one of the cottages of the Sue Bennett Memorial school here Friday night. She and some other girls were living in the cottage and attending school. Her roommates retired leaving her preparing her lessons, and they did not know until morning that she was gone.

She left a note on her table asking her roommates to ship her trunk to her sister at Mayfield, Ky., and saying that she was tired of life and was going to end it, and that they would never see her again. Her trunk was packed ready for shipment.

Although Prof. J. C. Lewis, principal of the school, and others have made diligent inquiries no clew can be found to her whereabouts. It has been learned that she did not leave London on either of the trains going out that night.

Miss Davidson is an orphan girl and has one aunt, Mrs. Belle Chester, living at 1617 Maiden Lane, Louisville, Ky. She came here at the beginning of the present school term at the request of Miss Lucy Lee Mahan, the evangelist who is paying her way. Miss Davidson was religiously inclined, and it was the intention of Miss Mahan to educate her for the ministry.

Many theories have been advanced as to what has become of the girl, but nothing has been learned today to warrant any conclusion.

A Louisville dispatch says:

"When interviewed last night Mrs. Belle Chester, who had received a telegram from Prof. Lewis announcing the disappearance of her niece, stated that it was her opinion that the girl had met with foul play. She said that there was nothing in the girl's nature to lead her to suspect that she had taken her own life.

"Miss Davidson visited her aunt during the Christmas holidays, leaving for school again on New Year's day. About a week later Mrs. Chester received a letter from her in her usual cheerful vein, and a few days afterward replied to it. Not having received an answer to her letter for over a week, Mrs. Chester began to feel a little uneasy, and was contemplating writing again when the telegram announcing the disappearance of her niece reached her.

"So far as Mrs. Chester was aware Miss Davidson had had only one affair of the heart, and that was with a young Methodist evangelist, whose name she does not know, but who was in Boston at the time her niece was visiting her here. So far as she knew there was no misunderstanding of any kind between them.

"Mrs. Chester describes her niece as being a very pretty and very intelligent young woman, with dark eyes, dark hair and fair skin. She was about twenty-one years of age, and was slightly over five feet tall. She usually wore glasses. Her parents are both dead and she has been living with her grandfather, N. A. Coulter, a prominent farmer near Mayfield, Ky. A brother lives in Mississippi and a sister in Tennessee. Two younger sisters live with their grandfather."

JUDGE E. BARRY'S NEW ELECTION BILL

Benton Editor to Offer One in House This Week.

A Bill Introduced to Take Power of Fixing Penalty Out of the Jury's Hands.

COMING REPORTS ON CONTESTS.

Cairo, Ill., Jan. 29.—The body of the woman discovered in the river here last Thursday has been identified as that of Mrs. J. O. Mangrum, of Nashville, Tenn.

J. O. Mangrum, the husband of the deceased, of Nashville, and Mrs. Logan Trousdale, the sister, of Birmingham, Ala., arrived yesterday and immediately went to the morgue where the clothing of the unfortunate young woman was at once recognized although no marks of identification on the body could be found.

All the theories advanced upon the case, however vague and indiscriminate they may be, are based upon the one primary explanation—foul play. In fact there seems to be no doubt in the minds of the many who have become acquainted with the case through the search for the missing woman, but that she was foully and premeditatedly murdered.

The Nashville city detective department has been called upon to work out the mystery of her death the theory upon which they are working being that she was murdered before she left Nashville for her money, $1,200 and jewels worth $1,500. When she left home the money was in her stocking, the supporter of which was cut and the stocking pulled down. The other stocking supporter was intact. Four diamond rings and one ruby had been on Mrs. Mangrum's left hand, the glove to which as well as the rings was gone when the body was found in the river. As in the case of the stockings the right hand was still covered by the glove. The circumstances are taken to indicate unmistakably robbery. Mrs. Mangrum's relatives have been unable to find that she bought a sleeping car ticket and railroad employee do not recall having seen her on the train on the night of December 14, when she was due to have left for either St. Louis or Chicago.

Dr. James McManus, the coroner, stated it as his opinion that all life was extinct before the body was thrown into the river. He also believes that chloroform was the medium by which Mrs. Mangrum came to her death.

A body may be preserved indefinitely in water at this time of the year owing to the low temperature. It will not rise until the gases form and until it does come to the surface will hardly move from its original position. The time usually set is from ten to thirty days, sometimes longer.

Allowing this length of time (30 days) it would leave a period of twelve days to pass before the body reached Cairo.

The motive, the $3,000, is plainly apparent, but who the parties to the crime may be—he, she, or they, yet remains to be discovered.

The husband and the sister, while here stopped at the Hotel Illinois, where in an interview with a representative of The Bulletin, the sister said: "There is no doubt that this is the body of our dear Rosa. We recognized the clothes the minute we saw them. They were the same she wore when last seen." "I firmly believe," she said, "that my sister has been most foully murdered." As to her plans for the future, Mrs. Trousdale would say but little.

The body was sealed in a copper-lined casket and shipped to Nashville on Illinois Central train No. 5 yesterday afternoon, the bereaved relatives accompanying.

To the Scotchmen of America

HERE is an article in MUNSEY'S MAGAZINE of great value to you—an article you can not afford not to read. It is on THE SONS OF SCOTLAND IN AMERICA, and is a romance of Scottish brains and Scottish pluck and Scottish achievement. It shows the constructive genius of the race, and the tireless energy and fighting qualities of the race.

The Scots, like the English and the Irish and the Dutch, were basic in our civilization. Five Scotchmen were among the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and of the four members of George Washington's original cabinet, three were of Scotch blood—Alexander Hamilton, Knox, and Randolph. Eight of our Presidents have been of Scotch or Scotch-Irish blood.

A Great Series of Race Articles

This is the second paper in a series of race articles now appearing each month in MUNSEY'S MAGAZINE. The first was on THE JEWS IN AMERICA. The third will be THE GERMANS IN AMERICA. Then follow THE IRISH, THE ENGLISH, THE FRENCH, THE DUTCH, THE CANADIANS, THE SCANDINAVIANS, THE ITALIANS, and finally THE AMERICANS IN AMERICA.

This is a great series of articles which should be read by every one who is of the blood discussed, and every one of any blood at all who is enough of an American to wish to know who is who and what is what. This article on the Scots in America appears in

Munsey's Magazine For February

Illustrated with 18 portraits of leading Scots in America

It was the romantic Paul Jones, a Scotchman, who founded our navy. It was a Scotchman who founded Princeton University. It was a Scotchman, James Gordon Bennett, who gave us our modern American journalism. And it was Andrew Carnegie, a Scotchman, who first organized our steel industry upon its present colossal scale, and who, beginning his career as a messenger-boy in Pittsburg, became in a short span of life the greatest ironmaster of the world and the second richest man in the world.

The February MUNSEY is one of the finest and most finished numbers in all that goes to make a high-grade magazine that we have ever issued. In the dignity and quality of its contents, in its press-work, including color printing, and in the excellence of the paper on which it is printed, there is no better magazine of the month at any price—none better anywhere.

On all news stands 10 cents; by the year $1.00.

KENTUCKY NEWSLETTERSGasoline Boat Blew Up.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 29.—The boiler of the gasoline boat "Little Willie," owned by several New Albany gentlemen, blew up forty miles below here. The boat caught fire and burned to the water's edge. The loss is $3,000. Henry McAdams, the engineer, was severely burned.

Death at Central City.

Central City, Ky., Jan. 29.—The community was shocked by the sudden death of Charles Wolcott, the 17-year-old son of James Wolcott, the banker and merchant of South Carrollton. While on his way to Sunday School he became violently ill, as the result of a severe chill, and returning to his home pneumonia quickly developed in both lungs and he died.

Street Car Franchise Sold.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 29.—A franchise for an electric street railway and lighting plant in this city was sold to H. M. Dalton for $1 and the cost of advertising the sale. The purchaser will give a bond of $3,000 as a guarantee of good faith, and work is to begin on the system within ninety days and five miles of track must be completed and in actual operation within one year.

Fire at Central City.

Central City, Ky., Jan. 29.—Children playing with fire at Cleaton, three miles distant from here, on the L. & N. railroad, started a fire in the dwelling of Robert F. Shelton. Among those who hurried to the assistance of Mr. Shelton in removing his household goods was one of his neighbors, Sundley Glenn, who was overcome by the smoke and, falling in the kitchen, was almost asphyxiated before discovered.

Old Soldier Found Dead.

Central City, Ky., Jan. 29.—John Evert was found dead in bed at his home on Second street. He had not been well but he had not been confined to his bed, and had retired in his usual good health. When the family called him for breakfast he failed to answer, and on investigating they found him dead. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that his death was caused from paralysis and old age, he being eighty-two years old. He was an old soldier.

Constable Shoots Negro.

Kuttawa, Ky., Jan. 29.—Luther Parker, colored, was shot five times here Saturday evening by Constable J. W. Cummins. Parker had failed to work a road and was fined. Refusing to pay the fine, the constable started with him to Eddyville to lodge him in jail. On the way, and before they got out of town, Parker refused to go further and is said to have drawn a knife. Cummins emptied his revolver, striking his victim five times, one ball breaking his leg.

$3.00 SHOES FOR MEN AND WOMEN

In its purchases the public has demonstrated that $3.00 is the real "popular price" for shoes, both for men and women. Recognizing this fact, we are continually striving to keep our $3 line the strongest and best obtainable anywhere. In order to do this we have had to choose always a shoe "made to wear" and NOT "made to yield a long profit." We know that this course pays, though, for our customers have the pleasant habit of coming back for the next pair—you see it pays them, too.

PADUCAH'S HUMANE SOCIETY.

Paducah has a humane society, a fine thing for any city, if it is active and does the work for which it is intended. It would require great deal of space to enumerate the manifold ways in which dumb animals are mistreated in Paducah, but everyone who has occasion to get out of doors is impressed with the cruel treatment accorded horses, dogs and other animals, and mostly by those who depend on these same patient, loyal beasts for a living.

It will be well, however, for the new organization to fully understand what will be required of it, to accomplish anything along the lines marked out for it. The members must themselves prevent cruelty to animals. There are now laws enough to give any beast protection, but they are not enforced. It is the duty of a humane society to see that they are enforced. A police officer cannot arrest a man for mistreating his horse unless he, the officer, sees it himself, or has a warrant. If he does not see it, the person or persons who do, must swear out the warrant. It is not sufficient to simply notify an officer of the law that the law has been violated. It takes something more substantial for him to proceed. The witness to any kind of an offense can be made to appear before the authorities and furnish information necessary for the issuance of a warrant.

In this way the humane society, if it use the proper tact and energy can soon break up the cruel practices so often seen in Paducah, especially on the levee. If a member of the society sees a horse or dog being mistreated, it is his or her duty to have a warrant issued; if he or she learns that someone else has witnessed a violation, it is his or her duty to see that this other person furnishes the information voluntarily or by compulsion, necessary to have a warrant issued. And this is not all. Witnesses must appear in court and testify at the proper time, or else the prosecutions will become a farce, and violations will be as numerous as before. A few convictions on the other hand, will have the desired effect, and the work accomplished will be well worth the trouble and inconvenience.

RATE REGULATION TO BE PUSHED.

The union of republicans and democrats in the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce in favor of the Hepburn railway rate regulation bill is a happy augury, says the Globe-Democrat. It means the passage of that measure through the house by a practically unanimous vote. No opposition to it of any consequence is looked for in that chamber. John Sharp Williams, the democratic leader of the house, is understood to be as ardently in favor of it as its author, William P. Hepburn. Seldom are the democrats and republicans all lined up in favor of any measure, but they apparently are in this case.

This bill seems to meet all demands in the way of giving the government the needed control over maximum railway rates. The work of supervision will be in the hands of the interstate commerce commission, and the idea is to give that body, on complaint of any shipper, the power to establish a "just, reasonable and fairly remunerative maximum rate." The commission's maximum rate shall go into operation thirty days after it gives its order to the railways in that connection. An appeal by the railways is open to the courts if they consider that the commission does them injustice.

Dolliver's bill, which is before the senate, is practically on the same lines as the Hepburn measure. Both have the president's support. It is to be presumed that he will use some influence in the senate in favor of this measure. When the bill goes to the senate with the virtually unanimous vote of the house behind it, the senate will find it difficult to evade the issue which is presented. It is understood that other bills have more of the senate's favor than Dolliver's measure commands, but the principle of that bill, when it comes from the house in the Hepburn measure, will have a big force behind it. The bill will be exhaustively debated in the senate. Foraker and a few other republicans will oppose it. But the number of democrats who will vote for it is likely to be much greater. Railway rate regulation on sane lines has an excellent chance for enactment in the present session of congress.

COSTS MONEY TO GO IN FAST COMPANY.

The Owensboro Messenger views with alarm the suggestion that its thrifty town be moved up into the group of second-class cities, and remarks:

Upon a tax rate of $1.70 Lexington last year raised and spent $323,795 in her city government, and the claim is made that the rate will have to be increased this year. Does Owensboro really want to get into that company? We rather think not.

We wonder what Editor Woodson will say when he learns that the apportionment for Lexington's 1906 expenses has been fixed at $456,024, a raise of $133,000 over the figures which gave him a shock. There is nothing small about Lexington finances except the cash value at the end of the year.—Lexington Leader.

Yes, anxious inquirer, if the city were to put in the best possible electrical machinery, hire the best and most competent men, and make necessary changes and extensions in its light plant, the city could furnish itself with as good as cheap lights as anyone else can do it. But the city hasn't done it, despite the fact that she has had ten or twelve years to start the good work. The city hasn't the money to do it now, and there is no reason to believe that the city could do it any easier next year, or the year after. The city could do a lot of things, were it not for that "if." The difference between the city putting in the necessary machinery, and furnishing the kind of lights needed, and a private corporation doing it, is that the city hasn't the money and the corporation has.

The Livingston Democrat says: "What we want to see two years hence is Hon. Ollie M. James governor of the good old state of Kentucky and Hon. John L. Grayot congressman from the old Gibraltar district. These are our boys, and if they live the man or set of men who oppose either, should they decide to make these races, will have no smooth sailing. Ollie M. James, the big congressman, the Kentuckian, that he is the orator that he is and the democrat that he is, could make Kentucky an ideal chief executive.

John L. Grayot, Livingston county's favorite son, brainy and eloquent, would add more to the already fa-

What silly ideas are frequently evolved by some of our public servants! Here we are told that an expert is going to be employed to inspect the street roller boiler and ascertain if running the roller to furnish heat for Riverside hospital when the heating plant gave down recently damaged it any, so "the hospital board may be asked to pay the costs." Suppose the hospital board does? What will be the difference? It all comes out of the city treasury anyhow. The only apparent advantage in having this inspection made is to furnish an excuse for paying the "expert" for making the examination.

Evansville has a new wrinkle in street sprinkling. The Journal-News says: "The scheme is to drop a quantity of westrumite, a chemical compound, into the water, to be spread upon the street. The result, it is claimed, will be remarkable in many ways. According to the claims of the representative, this solution of liquid and westrumite will make the body hard and elastic, will penetrate into the street, rendering it watertight, and will absorb any water that may accumulate in small holes and prevent the surface from freezing."

Here's the kind of supervisors of the tax books to have! Lexington Herald, "members of the board of supervisors who have fixed the valuation of the land in Lexington and Fayette county for assessment have increased the assessment on their own property and property in which they are interested a total of $164,360. Three members of the board of supervisors, who own property in Lexington, will pay the same taxes as last year, but six members will have to pay large additional taxes."

The Real Beneficiary.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 29.—For the first time in her history Kentucky is preparing to honor the memory of Abraham Lincoln, who was born within her borders, and who married a Kentucky girl. Representative A. L. Denny, Republican, introduced a joint resolution in the house to observe February 12 as Lincoln's birthday. The resolution was unanimously adopted by both houses, and the presiding officers of the two houses announced committees to have charge of the services. Lieut. Gov. Thorne named on the senate committee Senators Burnam, Ward and Campbell, and Speaker Lawrence named on the house committee Messrs. Denny, Alverson and Campbell.

The committee will meet today and extend a formal invitation to Gov. Beckham and Chief Justice J. P. Hobson to deliver the principal addresses. They have already informally agreed to do so.

Representative Taylor Gabbard has introduced a bill in the house to make Lincoln's birthday a legal holiday in Kentucky, which is almost assured of becoming a law.

BUCKHAM SOLD

THE LITTLE TOWBOAT WILL BE TAKEN TO CHATTANOOGA.

Purchased By Capt. Ham to Be Used in Government Dam Work.

A deal was closed today, it is understood in river circles, for the steamer J. F. Buckham. Capt. Ham, of Mobile, Ala., has purchased her from Capt. Herndon, of Caseyville, consideration private.

Capt. Ham has secured a contract for considerable government dam work below Chattanooga, on the upper Tennessee river, and needs the boat in the work.

A peculiar thing in connection with the deal is that ten barges that are to be used in the work are now on their way from Mobile. They were towed around to New Orleans, and are being brought up the Mississippi by the combine steamer Wood. At Paducah the barges will be taken in tow by the Buckham and towed to Chattanooga. It is said that the cost of towing them from Mobile to Chattanooga will be greater than it would have cost to build them new at Chattanooga.

Help for Women Passing Through Change of Life

Providence has allotted us each at least seventy years in which to fulfill our mission in life, and it is generally our own fault if we die prematurely.

Mrs. Mary Koehne

Nervous exhaustion invites disease. This statement is the positive truth.

When everything becomes a burden and you cannot walk a few blocks without excessive fatigue, and you break out into perspiration easily, and your face flushes, and you grow excited and shabby at the least provocation, and you cannot bear to be crossed in anything, you are in danger; your nerves have given out; you need building up at once! To build up woman's nervous system and during the period of change of life we know of no better medicine than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Here is an Illustration. Mrs. Mary L. Koehne, 371 Garfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years in my family and it never disappoints; so when I felt that I was nearing the change of life I commenced treatment with it. I took in all about six bottles and it did me a great deal of good. It stopped my dizzy spells, pains in my back, and the headaches with which I had suffered for months before taking it. I could feel that if it had not been for this great medicine for women that I should not have been alive to-day. It is splendid for women old or young, and will surely cure all female disorders."

Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick and ailing women to write her for advice. Her great experience is at their service, free of cost.

HICKMAN'S NEW LAWS

Dogs of Female Persuasion Taxed Five Dollars a Year.

Hickman, Ky., Jan. 29.—The new city council met and made some new laws for the town. A city tax of $2 annually was agreed upon as the tax of one dog and $3 for each additional dog owned by any single individual, and $5 for dogs of the female persuasion.

The ordinance prohibiting hogs, mules and horses from prowling around the streets is to be rigidly enforced.

A license of $10 for private boarding houses and $25 for hotels, exempting those that board teachers and pupils, was imposed.

Bent Her Double.

"I knew no one, for four weeks, when I was sick with typhoid and kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Annie Hunter, of Pittsburg, Pa., "and when I got better, although I had one of the best doctors I could get, I was bent double, and had to rest my hands on my knees when I walked. From this terrible affliction I was rescued by Electric Bitters, which restored my health and strength, and now I can walk as straight as ever. They are simply wonderful." Guaranteed to cure stomach, liver and kidney disorders; at W. B. McPherson's Drug Store; price 50c.

HAS BEEN DROPPED

No Further Proceedings in Customs Controversy at Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 29.—The complaint lodged by Judge Henry Burnett against Acting Appraiser Richardson for alleged discourtesy towards Miss Elizabeth Burnett when she called for a package sent her from England, and which discourses consisted of opening the package, and alleged impoliteness, has been dropped after a conference between Judge Burnett and Collector Barnett.

The latter informed Judge Burnett that the law required the package opened, and that the young man was only doing his duty.

Forced to Starve.

B. F. Leek, of Concord, Ky., says: "For twenty years I suffered agonies, with a sore on my upper lip, so painful, sometimes, that I could not eat. After vainly trying everything else, I cured it, with Bucklen's Arnica Salve." It's great for burns, cuts and wounds. At W. B. McPherson's Drug Store; only 25c.

MOUNTED CARRIER ALLOWED PADUCAH

Will Give the City Twelve Carriers, Two Mounted.

John Hawkins, Senior Substitute, Will Be Appointed to the New Position.

THE SERVICE GROWS RAPIDLY

Washington dispatches announce that Paducah has been allowed another letter carrier, and while the local postoffice officials have received nothing official to this effect, they are satisfied that the dispatches are correct, and that the carrier mentioned is to be a mounted carrier.

Application was made for a mounted carrier about a month ago, and an inspector came to Paducah and quietly investigated the need of one. Nothing was said of his visit at the time, and he left fully convinced that Paducah greatly needed a carrier of this description, and upon his return to Washington, it is understood, recommended one.

The appointment of a carrier for Paducah is consequently taken to mean that the carrier will be mounted as this is the only kind for which application has been made.

The new carrier will give Paducah twelve local carriers, double the number in service when Postmaster F. M. Fisher took charge of the post-office, less than eight years ago. The city has grown rapidly and the carriers are needed. The ones who are now in the outskirts, often do not have sufficient time to finish their second delivery, as they are not permitted to work over eight hours a day. Many people have been greatly inconvenienced by their mail having to be taken back to the office until the following day, and have not understood it.

Paducah now has one mounted carrier, Mr. Charles Holliday, who is furnished with a small wagon similar to those used by the rural carriers.

The route of the new carrier will be in the west end somewhere, it not yet having been decided just where.

John Hawkins, at present senior substitute, will be the new carrier, and Harvey Shelton will be advanced to senior substitute and be in line for the next regular position. Some one will be selected from the eligible list now containing five names, and will be appointed second substitute.

If the growth of the free delivery service and force is to be taken as any indication, Paducah's progress has been very rapid in recent years. The free delivery service was inaugurated in 1885 with five carriers. In 1898, thirteen years later, there was only one carrier more, the number in Paducah then being six.

In 1906, eight years later, there will be twelve, an increase of fifty per cent in less than eight years.

The new carrier will insure the people in every part of the city, it is claimed, two deliveries a day. Some of the districts are now able to get an average of only one delivery a day.

STRANGE COINCIDENCE.

Steamer Joe Wheeler Sank About the Time the Veteran Died.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 29.—What might have been interpreted as a premonition of the death of its famous namesake, and what was indeed a strange coincidence, is reported in a letter from Newport, Ark., to Capt. H. O. Brazee, U. S. inspector of steamboat hulls, of this city, which states that the steamer Joe Wheeler was sunk on Jan. 24, about twelve hours before the death in New York of the old war hero after whom it was named.

Another coincidence, which impressed itself upon the people of Newport, was that the steamer was out of service at the time of the disaster, being laid up at the wharf and undergoing repairs, being practically rebuilt, ready to take up a new term of service which was the identical hope of the battle-scarred veteran lying on his deathbed in New York.

This hope was destroyed in the case of the steamer almost without warning for the rapidly rising White river suddenly carried away the craft the other night and it is pronounced a total loss.

The Joe Wheeler was a river boat of 94 tons capacity, and ran on the Tennessee river for some years, being purchased by Capt. George Ridell, of Jacksonport, who afterwards sold it to Capt. W. A. Joyce, the last owner. For the past three or four years the Joe Wheeler has been running on the White river and last fall was laid up to be rebuilt.

WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU.

Few People Realize the Importance of Good Digestion Until it is Lost.

Many people suffer from Dyspepsia and do not know it. They feel mean, out of sorts, peevish, do not sleep well, do not have a good keen appetite, do not have the inclination and energy for physical or mental work they once had, but at the same time do not feel any particular pain or distress in the stomach. Yet all this is the result of poor digestion, an insidious form of Dyspepsia which can only be cured by a remedy specially intended to cure it and make the digestive organs act naturally, and properly digest the food eaten. Bitters, after dinner pills and nerve tonics will never help the trouble; they don't reach it. The new medical discovery does. It is called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is a specific for dyspepsia and indigestion. It cures because it thoroughly digests all wholesome food taken into the stomach, whether the stomach is in good working order or not.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by digesting the food, instead of making the worn out stomach do all the work, gives it a much needed rest and a cure of dyspepsia is the natural result.

When you are nervous, run down and sleepless, don't make the common mistake of supposing your nervous system needs treatment and fill your stomach with powerful nerve tonics which make you feel good for a little while only to fall back farther than ever.

Your nerves are all right but they are starved, they want food.

Nourish them with wholesome everyday food and plenty of it, well digested, and you can laugh at nerve tonics and medicines.

But when the nerves will not be nourished from a weak, abused stomach, but when the digestion has been made perfect by the use of this remedy all nervous symptoms disappear.

Who ever heard of a man or woman blessed with a vigorous digestion and good appetite being troubled with their nerves?

Good digestion means a strong nervous system, abundance of energy, and capacity to enjoy the good things of life.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will certainly set your stomach and digestive organs right; they can't help but do it because they nourish the body by digesting the food eaten, and rest the stomach.

You get nourishment and rest at one and the same time, and that is all the worn out dyspeptic needs to build him up and give new life to every organ and an added zest to every pleasure.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a god-send to the army of men and women with weak stomach and nerves and justly merits the claim of being one of the most worthy medical discoveries of the time.

HUMANE SOCIETY

Organized Saturday Night With Complete Set of Officers.

It was fitting that the organization of a humane society should have been at the home of that inveterate lover of animals and their champion to the day of his death,—the late Capt. Joe Fowler. Saturday night a meeting was held there and quite a crowd of representative people was present.

The officers elected were:

W. F. Paxton, president.

Rev. D. C. Wright, first vice-president.

Jos. L. Friedman, second vice-president.

Cook Husbands, secretary.

Richard Rudy, treasurer.

A meeting will be held some time this week to elect a board of directors and adopt a constitution. The directorate will consist of fifteen men and fifteen women, and the rules of the Kentucky Humane Society, of Louisville, will be adopted if they are found not to conflict with the second-class charter.

There is unlimited work here for such a society to do, and the organizers are thoroughly in earnest.

The Diamond Cure.

The latest news from Paris is, that they have discovered a diamond cure for consumption. If you fear consumption or pneumonia, it will, however, be best for you to take that great remedy mentioned by W. T. McGee, of Vanleer, Tenn. "I had a cough, for fourteen years. Nothing helped me, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which gave instant relief, and effected a permanent cure." Unequalled quick cure, for throat and Lung Troubles. At W. B. McPherson's Drug Store; price 50c and $1, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

The Joe Wheeler was a river boat of 94 tons capacity, and ran on the Tennessee river for some years, being purchased by Capt. George Ridell, of Jacksonport, who afterwards sold it to Capt. W. A. Joyce, the last owner. For the past three or four years the Joe Wheeler has been running on the White river and last fall was laid up to be rebuilt.

The Adventurers

HEYER

At Sercombe's feet was a prostrate figure, to make out what this might be I heard the approaching feet of the others. Then somewhere out of the night these words floated to us: "Captain Sercombe, I arrest you in the name of the queen."

There was a violent exclamation and the noise of a struggle and afterward a short cry and a horrid crack.

Sheppard and I leaped to our feet and reached the path, where ten paces from the water stood Sercombe and at his feet a prostrate figure.

"What is this?" I said anxiously.

"Oh, you there, gentlemen!" said Sercombe, puffing. "This knave would have ruined our whole venture. But I reckon I've given him his stomach full."

"Bending over the man. "He's about done for."

"Pooh," said Sercombe. "Only struck his head on a log. He's all right. Don't waste time over such swine." And he made for the boat, where I could perceive Montgomery.

I stopped him. "Understand this, Captain Sercombe," I said—"I am not here to break innocent bonds or to imperil honest lives, and if, as you say and I hope, this poor man is not dead, I will have him taken where he can be cared for."

Sercombe laughed harshly. "You are so infernally particular, Mr. Greatorex. But have your way."

"Very well," said I; "then I will take him over to the house yonder."

We carried the unfortunate man aboard the boat and pushed her off, Montgomery punting to the jetty. There we landed the body. Suddenly Sercombe stopped.

"This is my affair," he said, "not yours. You won't be able to show your faces after this if you're mixed up in it. Besides, I may get definite particulars as to Hood if I go up."

He shouldered the unconscious form of the policeman as he spoke and departed, staggering under his burden. In a little he came back.

"It's all right," he said easily. "I told the farmer that it was a friend of mine who had met with an accident, and he has promised to look after him till I return. I am to call in an hour's time." He laughed. "And I've found out that Hood left half an hour ago, having borrowed the old gentleman's boat. There's some good in charity after all." And once more he laughed.

At the word Montgomery and Sheppard bent to the oars, and the nose of the boat shot downstream.

CHAPTER XXII.

"A ND now," said I to Montgomery, "please explain. I think we none of us contemplated a boating expedition. Where are we going?"

"Hood's got on before us, you know," he explained eagerly. "Captain Sercombe and I got away safely and reached this ferry twenty minutes before you, but the boat had gone!"

"You mean Hood's boat?" I asked.

"That's it," Sercombe broke in. "I reckoned we might nab Hood in the act, but we came too late by ten minutes. I recognized the place from his description. For the matter of that, it's easy to find, but there was no boat. That meant we must carry the expedition a stage farther ere we could drop on him. Presently Montgomery and I happened upon this tub bit lower down. She's no great shakes, but she'll do to come up with him."

"And when we do?" said Sheppard.

"I don't want to put too fine a point on it, sir," said Sercombe, "but it means cutting out, and if we are not prepared for cutting out, why, we had best turn the nose of the boat upstream again."

There was silence after this, but Sheppard and Montgomery applied their ears, if anything, a trifle more smartly.

"We're not going to turn back now, if that's your meaning, captain," I said. "We only want to understand where we are and what we have to expect."

"I think, Mr. Greatorex, that you may expect trouble," said Sercombe, with a laugh. "Hood's got a load aboard, and he's no thought of being followed. What he's after I don't quite

A Live Wire

Every nerve is a live wire connecting some part of the body with the brain. They are so numerous that if you penetrate the skin with the point of a needle you will touch a nerve and receive a shock—pain it is called. Aches and pains come from a pressure, strain or injury to a nerve; the more prominent the nerve the greater the pain. When the pain comes from a large nerve it is called whether it be the facial nerves, or the heart, stomach, sciatic or other prominent nerve branch. To stop pain, then, you must relieve the strain or pressure upon the nerves. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills do this.

"I suffered intense pain, caused by neuralgia. I doctor'd and used various medicines without getting relief until I began taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They never fail to cure my headaches, and they use never leaves any bad after-effect."

A Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which the extracts and liquids in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiflament. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic or lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended and used in medicine.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherry bark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole body. Of course, it cannot be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe, obstinate, chronic coughs, bronchial and laryngeal coughs, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most wonderful cures, and for this reason the little book of extracts, treating of the properties and uses of the several medicinal roots that enter into Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and learn why this medicine has such a wide range of application in the cure of diseases. It is sent free. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. The "Discovery" contains no alcohol or harmful, habit-forming drug. Ingredients all printed on each bottle wrapper in plain English.

Sick people, especially those suffering from disease of long standing, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy.

ten," said Sercombe. "I don't believe our tub would have stood another ounce."

"I think we must thank Hood, too," I remarked.

"Oh, we'll thank him when we meet him," said Sercombe cheerfully, "and the sooner we pay our devils the better. So let's buckle to."

In spite of our objections Sercombe insisted upon taking a hand with me at the sculls. He professed himself quite well, said he had often suffered from the same complaint and could stand more of it.

"A pin prick to the way they get at your vitals in Sicily," said he.

He certainly showed no signs of fatigue or faintness in his handling of the oars, but rowed like a sailor—a little stiffly, but with plenty of force, and we cut the water at a fine pace. Presently Sheppard, who had taken Sercombe's place in the bows, tapped me on the shoulder.

"Here's the Ray, Ned," said he.

"So much for the first stage then," said Sercombe, who heard him, and he leaned on his oars. The current took us with a gentle wash into the bosom of the larger stream. The clouds congregated solemnly and, to my fancy, with an aspect of sullenness. The air was still, and the sweat broke out on the rowers. We changed again, and under the fresh impulse the tub ran down the Ray.

"We may pick them up any moment now," remarked Sercombe, and I observed him, in the stern, loosen his coat and feel in his pockets.

"The boat's leaking," said Montgomery in my ears. I stopped rowing and repeated his words to the others. Here was a dilemma. Sercombe paid no heed. He was staring, as I could just perceive, staring out upon the rowers. We changed again, and under the fresh impulse the tub ran down the Ray.

"We may pick them up any moment now," remarked Sercombe, and I observed him, in the stern, loosen his coat and feel in his pockets.

"Stay on your oars!" he commanded, and I no longer recognized the soft voice of our old enemy, but something stronger and imperious. It sounded of Chile and Peru. We ceased rowing.

"What do you hear?" he inquired.

"Nothing," came from Montgomery.

"I'll trust your ears, lad," said Sercombe. "Drive on."

The river opened wider, and the banks fell away on either side, sloping softly up to great black heights, and now a current from the sea came humming over the river bar and met us, striking the tub's beak with a dullplash. She swung and twisted, groaning in her sides.

"That's the estuary," said Montgomery.

Sercombe leaned forward. "And we've not caught 'em," he said musingly. "Hood must have had a notion. Well, you see, he was bound to push on."

Our changes had taken place with punctuality, and now I lay across the bows and had my ear to the channel.

The wind came up and blew gently about my face. "Good," sighed Sercombe, "that's refreshing. I thought I should stifle."

Sheppard, who was a yachtsman, cast a glance over his shoulders at the black horizon, but he said nothing. The current thrashed under the belly of the boat, and she rose and fell upon the waves.

"I suppose we're out now?" asked Sercombe.

Darkness environed us, and I could see nothing forward or upon the left. A gloomy mass of shadow lay upon the right hand.

"We're hugging the right bank," I said. "I think we're in the estuary. I can see nothing."

Of Waverly, Texas, writes: "Of a morning, when first arising, I often find a troublesome collection of phlegm which produces a cough and is very hard to dislodge; but a small quantity of Ballard's Horehound Syrup will at once dislodge it, and the trouble is over. I know of no medicine that is equal to it, and it is so pleasant to take. I can most cordially recommend it to all persons needing a medicine for throat or lung trouble." Sold by Alvey & List.

HEAVY FOG CAUSES DELAY IN TRAFFIC

Street Cars Collide at 11th and Trimble, But No One Hurt.

Both River and Railroad Men Suffered Inconvenience From the Heavy Cloud.

IT LIFTED ABOUT NINE A. M.

The heaviest fog seen in this section this winter was experienced this morning, and traffic generally was deterred by it. Street cars, railroads, teamsters and even pedestrians were hampered, but few accidents are reported.

The only serious accident reported was a head-end collision of street cars on the Trimble street line near Eleventh street on Trimble. The cars were Nos. 56 in charge of Motorman E. Johnson, going out, and 55 in charge of Motorman J. H. Bowlers, coming in. The fog was so heavy that the two motormen did not see each other until it was too late. Every effort possible to prevent a smashup was exerted, but the cars came together, the motormen sticking to their posts.

The cars met and were somewhat damaged but no one was injured. Two or three passengers on the No. 55 were shaken up. The accident happened shortly after 7 o'clock when the fog had not lifted much.

In railroad circles the train crews were on the alert and had to "feel" about their work. The Cairo train due at 7:45 was delayed slightly. The fog was so thick in about Barlow that the engineer could not see the smokestack of his engine, and had to "feel" his way most of the way to Paducah. The morning accommodation train from Fulton was hampered by the fog.

Switchmen in the yards were unable to do any fast switching and work of making up trains was retarded a great deal. The fog remained thick until about 9 o'clock, when it lifted.

One very remarkable feature of the fog was the effect it had on trains. The incoming trains showed us with a gentle wash into the bosom of the larger stream. The clouds congregated solemnly and, to my fancy, with an aspect of sullenness. The air was still, and the sweat broke out on the rowers. We changed again, and under the fresh impulse the tub ran down the Ray.

Rivermen also had considerable trouble on account of the fog. It is very dangerous for a boat to attempt to move about in a fog, and most of them had to hug the shore until the vapor rose.

Mitchell Was Stumped for Once

President of Mine Workers Met Waterloo.

Operators Agreed to Make a Scale Based on Mitchell's Argument But He Declined.

No Agreement Yet Reached

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 29.—For the first time in his life, John Mitchell, head of the greatest labor organization in the world, met his Waterloo in a debate with the operators. Francis L. Robbins, the spokesman for the operators in the interstate convention, placed Mitchell in the humiliating position of refusing to accept an offer made by Robbins to make a wage scale on the basis of arguments made by Mitchell himself.

The sensational episode came after a speech made by Mitchell, who had previously presented the demands of the miners to the convention. This was in the afternoon. All morning the miners had considered the proposition of forcing the Southwestern operators and miners into the interstate agreement. The operators had voted against it the day before.

The miners met in executive session today and voted to back down on the proposition. This cleared the way for opening arguments on the wage scale.

President Mitchell read the demands of the miners and began an argument in a general way why an increase of 12½ per cent should be conceded the miners. He stated that every coal trade paper in the United States for months had printed reports that the coal operators were enjoying great prosperity.

"These show," he declared, "that coal has increased in price at least 60 cents a ton."

When he sat down Robbins arose and said:

"If President Mitchell is honest in his statement we can settle the wage scale right here. The operators are willing to open their books and permit the scale to be fixed on what they show. If the books show that your president is telling the truth then we will give you an increase. If they show that the price of coal has decreased we will expect a reduction."

Robbins' statement came like a bombshell. No such coup had been expected. The miners sat silent, awaiting the reply of their chief. For two minutes the latter remained silent. Then Vice-President Lewis arose and endeavored to give President Mitchell a hint as to the proper answer.

"This is a rather broad challenge operators have made," he said. "But we like to know if they intend to present statements here based upon the fictitious or real value of their properties."

As President Mitchell still remained silent Robbins cried out:

"I demand an answer to my offer from President Mitchell."

The latter, who was seated at the speaker's table, arose and said:

"I decline to answer."

This came so unexpectedly that the miners were dumbfounded. They expected him to accept the cue of Vice-President Lewis. Then loud murmurings arose all over the great hall.

Before there was a chance for a storm Robbins arose and said:

"As your president refuses to accept our offer, which is based upon his own argument, I will proceed to discuss the wage scale he has presented."

Then for half an hour Robbins flayed the miners in a manner never before heard in a convention. He declared that they had presented a demand for an increase in wages as an excuse to avert a reduction. Then he read a statement from the books of the Pittsburg Coal company which showed that if President Mitchell had accepted his offer the miners would have to submit to a reduction. The company sold coal for 22 cents a ton less in 1904 than in 1903 and last year a further reduction of 9 cents was suffered. He read a report made by Vice-President Lewis to the miners, showing that the operators of Central Pennsylvania who were not members of the interstate agreement were paying less than in the four competitive states and that the miners were working nine hours a day.

Increase in School Attendance Here Quite Noticeable---General Change Up

The Paducah public school opened this morning with a surprising increase in attendance and Supt. C. M. Lieb was kept busy all day entering new pupils who had waited until the second term to come.

It is remarkable to note that many pupils who have been attending private schools are coming into the public schools. Several were entered this morning, and it is noticeable that the public schools are rapidly coming in favor on account of the excellent standard set. It is impossi-

BANDANA VISITED BY DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

Mercantile Company and Bank Burned--Hotel Damaged.

The Loss Will Not Amount to Over $7,000—The Bank Loses Nothing.

ORIGIN OF FIRE IS UNKNOWN.

Bandana, Ballard county, twenty miles from Paducah, on the Cairo extension of the Illinois Central, was visited by a destructive fire yesterday morning. The building occupied by the Bandana Mercantile company, together with stock and fixtures, and the building occupied by the Ballard County bank, northeast of the other, were destroyed and the Shaw Hotel, nearby, caught and was damaged, but was saved by an asbestos sheeting under the weatherboarding.

The blaze was discovered yesterday morning about 3 o'clock, and there being no fire protection at Bandana, the flames soon burned themselves out. At 4:30 the blaze had done its work.

The origin of the fire is unknown. Some claimed to have seen the back door of the Mercantile company's store open immediately after the fire was discovered, but this is denied today.

The stock in the latter, which was a general merchandise store, was worth about $6,000, with $3,500 insurance. G. S. and G. A. Meyers compose the company, and R. S. Sturt and G. S. Meyers owned the building.

The bank's books, money and other valuables were all safe in the vault, and were not damaged in the least. The loss on bank building and furniture is estimated at $1,000, with $500 insurance. The building was an old one, and the bank was preparing to move into its new building this week.

The damage to the hotel was about able to estimate the number of new pupils entered today but it is thought the number will reach fifty in the primary grades.

There was a general change up in the schools this morning because of the semi-annual promotions. Each room gave up one division and received another in its place. The arrangement of promotions is such that no inconvenience is caused either teacher or pupil, and the teachers reported all departments running very smoothly.

$250, with no insurance. One side of the weatherboarding was burned off.

The Ballard County bank has a fine new building, said to be the finest bank building in Ballard county, and will move into it at once, hence yesterday's fire will not inconvenience the bank in the least.

THREE MEN

ATTEMPTED TO GET A FREE RIDE TO PADUCAH.

Train Was Stopped and They Were Vanquished By the Train Crew.

The crew on train No. 306, from St. Louis to Paducah via Carbondale, due at 3 o'clock p.m., had a desperate fight near Metropolis yesterday with three half drunken men who, it is alleged, tried to hold up the crew for a free ride to town.

The men got on the train at Metropolis and started to ride to Paducah, it is presumed. They got in the front car and gained the forward platform, blocking the door so as to prevent Conductor C. H. Blaney and Flagman J. J. Bryant from getting to them.

The train was stopped, however, the conductor being determined that the men pay or get off, and the strangers showed fight. The train was near several piles of cross-ties and a pitched battle was waged for several minutes. The crew of the train came out victorious and completely routed the would-be toughs.

Death at Symsonia.

Mrs. Holly Gambill, aged 84, died yesterday at Symsonia, Ky., of general debility. She was one of the oldest residents in this end of the state and was well known in the Symsonia section. She leaves two sons and three daughters. She was a member of the Baptist church and the funeral will be held this afternoon at Clark's river cemetery.

CHECKING CLERK LOCKED IN A CAR

F. F. Boswell Made a Prisoner By Accident Yesterday.

He Could Not Attract Any One's Attention Through the Thick Sides of the Car.

WAS FOUND IN NICK OF TIME.

F. F. Boswell, aged 17, a checking clerk employed in the night service of the local I. C. yard department, was made a prisoner by accident in a big refrigerator car yesterday morning in the I. C. south yards, and had it not been for his accidental discovery by a car inspector, the young man might now be speeding hundreds of miles south on a manifest freight train, his friends and employers knowing nothing of his whereabouts.

Boswell was sent out early in the morning to check a string of freight cars in the yards. He, with all other checking clerks, had been instructed by General Agent John Donovan to get into every freight loaded car if the car was not sealed, and see if anything was missing. Boswell started out about 4 o'clock Sunday morning to work over the cars. He saw the seal of a big loaded refrigerator car had been broken, or the door not sealed at all, and climbed up to investigate.

Refrigerator cars are made stronger than ordinary freight cars, and have a patent door which opens on hinges. When the door is closed it shuts and latches automatically on the outside, and very little air can get in or out. The double walls of the car prevent much sound escaping. While in the big car with the door standing open, Boswell was made a prisoner by a switch engine passing on the siding, striking the open door and knocking it shut. The automatic latch worked beautifully and Boswell found himself a prisoner. He beat on the sides of the car, shouted and did everything he could think of to attract attention, but few pedestrians and employees were out at that time in the morning.

Boswell was imprisoned at 4 o'clock and was not released until 9, when he was accidentally discovered by an inspector who was going into the south yards to inspect cars. The inspector heard a muffled sound in the car and lifting the latch looked in. He found Boswell frantic and well-nigh exhausted from his hours of futile beating and shouting in the car. Boswell had little to say but made straight for the yard office and then home for a good rest.

PADUCAH TWIRLERS

Hedges to Return to Three-Eye Brahic May Go to Southern.

Alonzo Hedges, the baseball pitcher, stated this morning that he would be back in the Springfield, Ill., team this season in the Three I league.

Hedges has accepted terms and will report as soon as directed. He has not received his contract yet, but the acceptance of terms is equivalent to a signature of the contract. Hedges says he is in good form and is sure he will pitch winning ball this season.

Dick Brahic, the Paducah pitcher, has received an offer from a Southern league team, Montgomery, Ala. It is said, but it is not known, whether or not the local management will let him go.

There were nine additions to the Second Baptist church at yesterday's service. One new member was received by profession at the morning service, and seven at the evening hour: Rev. E. H. Cunningham, the pastor, is doing a fine work in that end of the city and is rapidly building up his church.

Rev. J. W. Blackard, presiding elder of the Paducah district, held his first quarterly meeting in Mayfield yesterday. Saturday's Mayfield Messenger says: "The Rev. J. W. Blackard, D. And Buffalo's Mayor is Charged With Neglect of Duty.

Buffalo, Jan. 29.—Formal charges of neglect of duty have been drawn up against Mayor Adams of this city, as an outgrowth of an investigation into the methods of accounting for the city's police pension.
